A NOTE FROM THE GREENVILLE THEATRE BOARD CHAIR

Welcome!

We are beyond thrilled to have you join us for live theatre again! As Covid-19 closed our doors, we all felt the effects and faced the challenges. Yet, we are here together today. This greeting is one of gratitude. With support from so many, Greenville Theatre survived to proudly present our 96th season.

Thank you to Allen and Suzanne McCalla who shepherded the theatre through difficult financial times. Thank you to our theatre staff who maintained the business and the building so that we would be ready to reopen. Thank you to our Resident Acting Company who improvised and imagined while they were away and have returned to our stage.

And thank YOU! We appreciate you - the many donors who contributed to sustain us and the patrons who waited patiently for their subscriptions to be fulfilled. We couldn't do it without you.

Lastly, I am incredibly pleased to welcome Max Quinlan, Greenville Theatre's new Producing Artistic Director. We are grateful to open our doors and begin this next chapter together.

Warmest Regards,

Christi Mobley

He has worked as a spotlight operator, backstage crew, and has even had a few small acting parts. Since 2003, he has been working in the production booth running sound, lights, and occasionally microphones. He will be happy to get you a cold drink or a snack before the show or at intermission, as he helps with concessions as well. When he is not working his day job doing CAD work for a small engineering firm or helping at the theatre, he enjoys playing golf.
